Celebrating School Counseling: Catch the Sensation

Brian holds a Bachelors Degree in Secondary Social Studies Education, a Masters Degree in Guidance and Counseling, and an Educational Specialist Degree in Instructional Technology. He is certified in Early Childhood, Middle Grades and Secondary Social Studies Education, Interrelated Special Education, Guidance and Counseling, and Educational Leadership. He lives in Adel, Georgia, and is employed by the Valdosta City School System in Valdosta, Georgia as a Secondary School Counselor. His advocacy for children and love of the profession of school counseling is immensely displayed in his motto that he developed in 1996 and signs on all correspondences: “Always...for the children.”

Lunchon Keynote Presentation

Friday, November 5th

Mary Fuller Everhart, B.A., Training and Development Director at School of Law, Children’s Law Center, University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC

Counselors as Advocates for Students Involved in the Court Systems?

The keynote address focuses on the process of handling students in Family Court, both as delinquents and abuse and neglect victims. Children have special needs and are treated differently than adults in the court system. Ms. Everhart reviews the steps in delinquency proceedings and also the ways that students may come into family court. This keynote address provides counselors a better understanding of the impact on the student population they serve.

Featuring School Counselor Share Sessions

You will have an opportunity to share your favorite counseling activity or strategy with the participants. If you plan to attend any of the three share sessions, please bring 20-25 copies of a lesson plan, play therapy strategy, or guidance/small group activity that you have found successful to share with other school counselors.
